City Backs Up Legion Project For Memorial

American Legion Memorial Building Campaign, Starting Monday, Finds Citizens Ready to Help in Drive to Capture Hill $25,000.

The team workers of the American Legion Memorial Building Campaign held their first meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Friday night. It was a hot, old-time, enthusiastic meeting, and it speaks well for the civic and patriotic action of the fraternal and civic organizations who have offered their services to make this memorial to the war dead a living thing.

The meeting was called to order by Commander George W. Potter, of Kingston Post, who told how much Kingston had done for the living veteran but nothing for the dead. The standard white crosses that mark the resting places of the overseas dead were provided by Uncle Sam. The tombstones on the graves of our boys who were brought back home were supplied by the families. Surely, Kingston should erect a memorial to these heroic dead, that they and their comrades might continue to enjoy freedom and liberty.

Other members of the American Legion then described to the workers the work that the Legion has accomplished in welfare work and Americanism, how it has been the staunch friend and supporter of the crippled comrade, his wife and children, and what a splendid destiny lies before it. These speakers were enthusiastically applauded.

John D. Schoonmaker, chairman of the executive committee, told of the great results so far accomplished by his committee in canvassing the advance subscriptions. His committee will have its report ready for the Monday night meeting of team workers. The success with which this committee has met will insure the overwhelming success of this worthy campaign.

Samuel M. Watts, chairman of the general campaign committee, then gave a pep talk to the workers that will greatly help them in their work. The campaign slogan is "Make It Snappy."

The prospect cards were handed out to the workers—and on Monday morning this valiant army of the campaign in the city will lay down its first battle—and by the following Saturday night $25,000 will be theirs. They will meet a few shrapnel of obstacles, and a few hand grenades of disappointment. But next Saturday night the last enemy trench will be theirs.

The following organization teams, with team captains as shown, will meet at the headquarters at the Y. M. C. A. and attend the meeting:

Chamber of Commerce No. 1—Mr. Smith.

Chamber of Commerce No. 2—Arthur Church.

Rotary Club—E. W. Hathaway.

Nathan Club—R. F. Chidsey.

Knights of Columbus—Florian P. Winger.

Kingston Lodge, No. 10, F. & A. M.—Dr. A. L. Hill.

Knights of Pythias—Dean L. Tait.

Retail Grocers' Association—Benjamin Siskind.

Port Ewen Committee—Dr. George R. Ross.

Campaign headquarters for the week will be at the Y. M. C. A.

The teams will meet again Monday night at 9 o'clock. Every captain and every one of his workers will report at this meeting. They will bring their report of work accomplished. The meeting will be short and snappy.

Should any worker require supplies or information, they can get both at the campaign headquarters at the Y. M. C. A. Someone will be at these headquarters (the room at the right end of the first floor corridor) all day long.

GRANT M. BRINNIER'S BUICK COUPE DESTROYED.

While returning from Kingston Thursday, Grant M. Brinnier met with an accident to his Buick coupe and he also sustained several cuts. Mr. Brinnier was driving the coupe when the steering wheel jammed and he was unable to guide the car. As it left the road, it rolled with a pole and Mr. Brinnier was unable to open the door. Realizing the predicament he was in, he managed to get through the window and in so doing received the cuts from the glass. He had just taken out of the car when it burst into flames and was totally destroyed. The Saengerles Post.

License Year Expires June 30

New Licenses Will Be Obtainable on Monday — Chauffeurs' Renewal Licenses From Albany and New York Offices.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, May 16.—The license year for the motor vehicle operators and chauffeurs will expire June 30, and renewals should be made on or before that date, otherwise drivers of cars will be without proper credentials, as existing licenses will not be recognized after June 30. They may be arrested after that time if they drive without a renewed license.

Commissioner Charles A. Harnett, of the bureau of motor vehicles, has sent to county clerks and other issuing officers instructions and a plan of procedure for the issuance of operators' renewal licenses which will be in effect on July 1. The new licenses will be obtainable Monday, May 18.

In all counties outside the Metropolitan district new licenses will be issued if applications are made to county clerks, and renewal stubs are detached from existing licenses and presented with the applications. In cases where the stubs are not attached the applications and fees must be referred to the Albany office.

In the counties of the Metropolitan district—Bronx, New York, Kings, Queens, Richmond, Westchester, Rockland, Nassau and Suffolk—renewals will be issued on application forms sent from the New York office.

All chauffeurs' renewal licenses will be issued directly from the Albany and New York offices of the bureau and not from the offices of county clerks.

Junior operators' licenses will not be renewed. Those who desire junior licenses must apply at the Albany office.

No Politics on State Highway

Delcates: Colonel Greene in Announcement That He Has Placed Foremen Under Civil Service—Every Foreman Must Pass Examination.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, May 16.—Politics has been eliminated from the state highway department.

So declared Colonel Frederick Stuart Greene, state superintendent of public works, in announcing today that he had just succeeded in having the 671 foremen in the department placed under civil service.

"What will the political leaders think about that?" the colonel was asked.

"I don't care what they think," he replied, "I never pretended that I knew anything about politics but I do know this will be for the best interest of the state."

Civil service examinations will begin at once for the highway foremen. Every man now holding such a post must pass the examination if he is to continue on the job.

Every person in the highway department with the exception of the superintendent, two deputies and two or three stenographers, and the so-called pick and shovel men, will now be under civil service, Colonel Greene said.

"It would be impossible for us to have the pick and shovel men under civil service because many of them only work on the job a short time," the colonel said. "The big thing, the way I see it, is to have the foremen under civil service."

In the past, the colonel admitted the foremen were appointed at the recommendation of the political leaders of their respective counties. Every time there was a change in the political makeup of the highway department at Albany, there was a shakeup in the highway foremen unless some of them happened to be of the same political faith as the man at the head of the department.

The State Civil Service Commission has estimated it will cost upwards of $5,000 to provide the examinations for the foremen.

"I believe this is the most important step ever taken to eliminate politics from a single state department," Colonel Greene concluded.

What the political leaders think remains to be seen.

Filsinger Held For Grand Jury

Brooklyn Man Whose Automobile Killed Boy at Entrance to Rondout Creek Bridge Held by Police—Justice McKenzie—Bail of $5,000 Supplied.

Frank P. Filsinger, of 68 Vermont street, Brooklyn, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Henry E. McKenzie at Port Ewen Friday afternoon and held to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of reckless driving and having caused the death of little Alexander Schwartz. Bail in the sum of $5,000 was supplied.

Filsinger drove the Buick car which struck the Schwartz boy at the Port Ewen entrance to the Rondout creek bridge a short time ago and caused his death. At the time the boy with his mother and several other women and children had crossed the bridge from Kingston and were about to cross the roadway and return on the west walk of the bridge. The Filsinger car was proceeding across the bridge and when at the Port Ewen end of the bridge struck the little boy and carried him some distance up the hill where he fell to the roadway. The boy was picked up and taken to the hospital but was beyond help. The Filsinger car was stopped and returned to the scene of the accident. Mr. Filsinger claims he did not see the lad until he was a few feet away from him and that the boy dodged in front of the car and it was impossible to avoid him.

The boy's mother claims the lad broke away from her and ran across the road but that at the time he crossed the car was not in sight. She claims that the boy was across the roadway before the car came along and that the boy was not in the roadway at the time he was hit.

Van Etten & Cook appeared for Mr. Filsinger who has a summer home at Port Ewen where he was spending a few days at the time of the accident.

Harnett) of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles today issued an order permitting the use of posters or stickers on the side and rear windows of automobiles (but not windshields), during the week of May 21-26, in connection with the sale of poppins for the benefit of disabled veterans. A law passed recently prohibits the use of posters or stickers on windshields or rear windows of motor vehicles, either than those authorized by the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles.

Peace Through World Fellowship

Rotarians Have High Altus. International Director Explains at Lake Mohonk District Conference—Individuals' Contribution Is At Weekly Rotary Meeting.

John E. Norman, director of Rotary International, spoke this morning at the Rotary conference of the 29th District at Lake Mohonk and outlined the aims of Rotarians.

He said in part:

Twenty years ago last month four men gathered together in the city of Chicago and organized the first Rotary Club. Their sphere was small—they each established a close fellowship with the other three—more men were invited in and finally one who had been a member crossed the continent to the shores of the Pacific and because of his desire to have that intimate fellowship, the second club was organized, three years after the first. In two more years we had sixteen clubs, in the sixth year Canada and the British Isles came in, then five years later on in the eleventh year, Cuba—then—War—the opposite of fellowship occupied the stage and we could do nothing with extension abroad, but as soon as war was over, Rotary, the champion of International Peace—spread like wild fire until today, business and professional men, representing China, Japan, India, South Africa, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines, France, Belgium, Holland, Spain, Norway, Sweden, Italy, Switzerland, Denmark, Uruguay, Brazil, Argentina, Chile, Panama and other countries have a band of fellowship, whose strength surpasses all forms of political treaties.

The sun never sets on a Rotary meeting. The club in the little hamlet of Oak Hill, West Virginia, nestled there in the heart of the Alleghenies meets at the same hour of the day as the club at Sidney, Australia, 12,000 miles away, and each group is striving for the same object—International Peace through a world fellowship of business and professional men. When I can clasp the hand of San Young, the Secretary of the Pekin Club; Hon. George Fowles of Auckland, New Zealand, Huit Hutchison from Australia, Anton Verkade from Zandam, Don Herbert Coates of Montevideo and others from distant lands in a fellowship that forgets nationality—race—color—creed—then I feel the thrill that comes from international fellowship. And as soon as Rotarians recognize that their weekly meetings are local parts of a world fellowship, they will experience that same thrill.

Did Rotary just grow? Was it chance that it became a world power? It was not chance—Rotary has grown and taken its place in the world because men under across the plain, beyond the mountains, across the inlet, the bay, and the sea have applied the principle of "Service not Self" to the minutiae of their daily lives, never recognizing that their unseen hands were bridging a chasm which has existed between men since the creation. It is due to them that Rotary has grown. There is only one chance in it. There is a chance that perhaps some of us have not always done all we could and because of that failure Rotary is not further along.

Rotary has a sublime mission—yet a most practical mission. We have set for ourselves the achievement of six great objects.

First, to encourage and foster the ideal of service as the basis of all worthy enterprise. This object is mental, set into your heart and soul the desire to help and you will find in your occupation—if it be a worthy one—an avenue to service.

Second, to encourage and foster high ethical standards in business and professions. No man ever did a permanent worthy service through an unethical channel.

Third, to encourage and foster the application of the ideal of service by the individual Rotarian to his professional and community life. It is not enough that a man shall have the mental attitude of service if his acts are unethical, and it is also not enough that we simply do the right thing. This third object demands that we strive to have the right mental attitude and by our daily lives exemplify it.

Fourth, to encourage and foster the development of acquaintance as an opportunity for service. Acquaintance brings you into contact with the needs of the other fellow—it is not sufficient to know him, it is to know him as a person, and consequently put one in a better position for service.

Fifth, to encourage and foster the

MEN'S CLUB HELD "LADIES' NIGHT" ON FRIDAY EVENING

The Men's Club of the First Dutch Church held a "Ladies' Night" Friday evening in the chapel when the club and the ladies were entertained by Harry Rogers in an expose of spiritualism and Mrs. Benjamin Johnston sang. At the close of the program refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed. This was the last meeting of the club until October.

recognition of the worthiness of all useful occupations, and the dignifying by each Rotarian of his occupation as an opportunity to serve society.

Sixth, to encourage and foster understanding, good will, and International Peace, through a world fellowship of business and professional men united in the Rotary ideal of service. Wherein is the individual Rotarian's part? Is it his to go to the other side of the world to make peace with others? Is it his to go into other states? No, the place for each Rotarian's contribution to the sixth object of Rotary is at the weekly meeting of his Rotary club, there at that table with a few other fellows lay the foundation of this great world fellowship we are building. We cannot hope to bring world peace this year. It may not come for generations, but we can each day bring it nearer by getting into closer fellowship with those with whom we come into contact.

"Some day the world shall need a man, etc."

The individual Rotarian's contribution to world fellowship, the sixth object of Rotary, is at hand in the Rotary club, and while it may not look important now, it may be the first link in the deciding straw of the chain of peace for the world. I plead with you to recognize in the humblest Rotary service in your local club, an opportunity to encourage and foster international peace through a world fellowship of business and professional men.

It is an inexorable law of life that each day we live in a little larger circle, we touch a few more lives, we have a little more influence.

County Loses Suit Against State

Court of Appeals Sustains Appellate Division in Reversing Judge Hasbrouck's Order Relating to Apportionment of Highway Money.

Colonel Frederick Stuart Greene, state commissioner of public works, was awarded the final decision in his controversy with the county of Ulster, over selection of county highways to be improved, by the court of appeals Friday in affirming the order of the appellate division, third department, which reversed Justice G. D. B. Hasbrouck. The decision of the court was unanimous and no opinion was written.

The supervisors of Ulster county designated the sections of highways to be improved. Colonel Greene refused to approve, because he declared the Republican majority had "played politics" in allowing no improved roads in three towns represented by Democratic supervisors, Olive, Rochester and Saugerties. He refused also to release the state money of $30 a mile allowed by the state to the construction of county highways under the Lowman act of 1920, amounting to $55,440 for the work planned in 1924, but which was not done because of the litigation.

Justice Hasbrouck granted an injunction requiring Colonel Greene to approve the designation and release the state money on application of John W. Eckert, county attorney, but the appellate division reversed the order. Mr. Eckert contended the only discretion given by the law as to designation of highways to be approved is to the county authorities and they have control over county and state money for their construction and duties of the state department are limited to supervision of the work.

Thaw Floods Yukon Valley

City of Dawson Experiences Worst Flood in Its History—Fears for Fate of Farmers Living on Islands.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Dawson, Yukon, May 16.—Dawson today emerged from the worst flood in its history.

Several houses were carried away, heavy property damage was done by the flood waters but no loss of life was reported.

City police today in a launch were making an effort to reach the islands in the Yukon river, fearing for the safety of farmers living on the islands.

For a time the flood threatened to wipe out the city. But the river dropped four feet during the night. The business district escaped damage.

The flood was caused by the cold spring weather followed by a sudden thaw. All along the Yukon Valley torrents of water poured from the tributaries.

Below Dawson today flood conditions still prevailed. Seven feet of water was reported at the town of Circle.

The government radio station was out of commission for 12 hours, when the flood was at its height.

Prominent citizens today wired the authorities at Ottawa asking that an appropriation of $50,000 be sent to repair the damage.

Heavy Hitters On Norwich Club In Sunday Game

Team Which Opposes Colonials Sunday Has Good Reputation—Russell or McDermott to Get Pitching Assignment.

The Colonials will have to travel at a fast pace to beat out the Norwich Club of Brooklyn which will play at the Kingston Fair Grounds Sunday afternoon. The Colonials need this game to bolster up their average as well as to add to their reputation for defeating fast semipro teams. The Norwich Club comes to Kingston with a reputation of every man on the team hitting over the 300 mark in the three games played so far this season. Either McDermott or Russell will have a big job to keep the New Yorkers from hitting. Which one will take the assignment is not known. Coyle injured his ankle in practice several days ago and whether he will be able to play the initial sack has not been decided. If he cannot play it will mean that McDermott will be shifted to first and Russell will be given the assignment.

So far this season the Norwich Club has won two and lost one game. If they can be sent back home with a defeat it will lower their season average to less than 500 mark and boost the Colonials average well above the 500 mark where it now stands.

Manager Schmidt has two men who can take the assignment Sunday. Sandie or Hesse are both available and which one will be selected is not known. Both have been setting up a good record this season and are considered dependable. However the Colonials have been hitting light so far this season and should soon be due for a spurt which will run up the batting averages. The Deegan-Robins combination hope this spurt will come Sunday afternoon when the Norwich Club invades the Fair Grounds.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

by MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE BUZZING FLY

Little Molly was ill. She had been in bed for several days and now she was sitting up on the sofa in the living room. She was at that point now when a squeaking door made her feel quite nervous and cross, though she knew she had often left this door half-open, which had blown back and forth in the wind and squeaked.

Then she sat up, the door that led into the dining room and it had been "pulled to" without being latched. Now it blew open quite wide and then almost closed. It acted as though it were going to catch and then just decided to be mean enough not to catch so as to make people nervous.

And as it went back and forth it squeaked. "Oh, that wretched door," said Molly. "It makes me so nervous." She didn't feel quite strong enough to get up and close it and just then no one was around to wait on her.

Quite often she had left the door just that way and her mother had told her to go back and latch it, for the door was opposite from an open window and the wind almost always did this trick with it whenever it got the chance.

She had never seen any reason for anyone minding it banging a little back and forth, but now it annoyed her most frightfully.

She was really not supposed to get up and close a door for she was wrapped up on the sofa just as though she were in bed.

But at last she couldn't stand the squeaking door any longer and got up and closed it.

She felt a little weak, and the walk, although ordinarily a short one, tired her.

She was glad to get back to the sofa again.

She curled up in the quilt and felt rather pleasantly sleepy.

"I think I'll have a little nap," she said to herself.

"I'm not so sure about that, buzz, buzz," said a fly.

"Oh, dear," said Molly. "First it was the wind and the door squeaking and now you're going to bother me."

"Buzz, buzz," said the fly, not caring in the least.

"I'll just go to sleep in spite of you," said Molly.

"Buzz, buzz," said the fly.

So Molly got into a most comfortable position and pulled the pillow down so her head was lower. She felt deliciously sleepy now. In a moment she would be asleep.

She made up her mind quite firmly on this subject. But of course the fly had had nothing to do with the making up of her mind.

He had not been asked whether he would agree.

Just to show her, it seemed, that he had not been asked, he stepped upon her forehead.

Now, it was only thing to make up one's mind not to be bothered by a fly, and another to have the fly come on one's forehead for a walk.

She brushed the fly away. He buzzed off and came back again.

"Oh, please go away, fly," Molly said.

"Buzz, buzz, buzz," answered the fly. "I don't feel well, fly, and I want to rest. Go away and let me sleep."

"Buzz, buzz, buzz," said the fly.

Then she sat up and tried to swat the fly with a folded paper.

But every time the fly escaped.

"Haven't you heard me beg you to stop bothering me?" she asked again.

"Buzz, buzz, buzz," replied the fly.

"Oh, dear, oh, dear, don't you understand the English language, you stupid fly?"

"Buzz, buzz, buzz," said the fly.

"Of course you don't," Molly exclaimed. "You only know fly talk. But I wish more than anything that I knew how to say 'Go away, fly' in fly language. Mr. fly, but that would be a help."

"Buzz, buzz, buzz," said the fly.

THE FATE OF RALEIGH'S COLONY AT ROANOKE DID NOT PREVENT THE ENGLISH FROM PLANNING FURTHER SETTLEMENTS IN AMERICA. EARLY IN THE 17TH CENTURY AN ENGLISH SEA CAPTAIN NAMED GOSNOLD WAS TRYING TO RAISE FUNDS TO FOUND A COLONY IN VIRGINIA AND ANOTHER NAMED WEYMOUTH WAS LOOKING FOR SOMEONE TO FINANCE A LIKE VENTURE IN NEW ENGLAND.

TWO COMPANIES WERE FORMED IN 1606 OF RICH MERCHANTS AND ADVENTURERS FOR THE PURPOSE OF ESTABLISHING COLONIES IN AMERICA. ONE WAS CALLED THE PLYMOUTH COMPANY, THE OTHER THE LONDON COMPANY. QUEEN ELIZABETH HAD DIED IN 1603 AND KING JAMES I, WHO SUCCEEDED HER ON THE THRONE, BEING EAGER TO EXTEND HIS DOMINIONS, GLADLY GAVE CHARTERS TO THE NEW COMPANIES.

THE KING GAVE THE PLYMOUTH COMPANY AUTHORITY TO SETTLE THE REGION BETWEEN 41° AND 45° NORTH LATITUDE AND THE LONDON COMPANY BETWEEN 34° AND 38° BOTH GRANTS EXTENDING A HUNDRED MILES BACK FROM THE COAST. THE SEABOARD BETWEEN THESE GRANTS WAS LEFT FREE TO BOTH COMPANIES ON THE CONDITION THAT NEITHER BUILD A SETTLEMENT WITHIN A HUNDRED MILES OF THE OTHER.

THE SAME YEAR THE PLYMOUTH COMPANY SENT A COLONY TO NEW ENGLAND BUT IT WAS TAKEN BY THE SPANISH ON THE WAY OVER. NOT DISCOURAGED THE COMPANY SENT ANOTHER EXPEDITION THE FOLLOWING YEAR (1607) TO PLANT A COLONY AT THE MOUTH OF THE JAMES RIVER. THE COLD WINTER AND THE MANY HARDSHIPS DISHEARTENED THE SETTLERS AND THEY WERE GLAD TO RETURN TO ENGLAND.

No man has a right to leave the world as he found it. He must add something to it, either he must make it a little better or happier, or he must make the face of the world more beautiful or fairer to look at.—Edward Bok.

TASTY FOODS

A nice cake filling which will be cherished is prepared as follows:

Sour Cream Filling.—Take one cupful of sugar and sour cream and the same of nuts. Cook the sugar and cream to the soft-ball stage, add the nut meats and beat until creamy; use as filling and top for cake.

Beef à la Mode.—Take four pounds of the rump of beef, brown the meat in a little fat. Add five or six sliced onions and three cupfuls of boiling water. Simmer for an hour, then add three-fourths of a cupful of vinegar, two or three pieces of stick cinnamon, two tablespoonfuls of brown sugar, two teaspoonfuls of granulated sugar, two teaspoonfuls of whole cloves. Simmer three hours, adding water as needed. Thicken the gravy with two tablespoonfuls of flour, after straining the broth.

Date Bars.—Take one cupful of dates cut into small pieces, one cupful of coarsely chopped walnut meats, two well-beaten egg yolks, three-fourths of a cupful of sugar, one teaspoonful of salt, six tablespoonfuls of flour and one teaspoonful of baking powder. Add the sugar to the egg yolks, then the flour and fold in the stiffly beaten whites at the last. Flavoring may be added if desired. Add the dates to the flour before adding the other ingredients.

Molasses Drop Cookies.—Take one-half cupful each of butter, sugar, molasses and sour milk. Add one beaten egg, one teaspoonful of soda, two cupfuls of flour, one-half cupful of currants or raisins, cinnamon, nutmeg and ginger to taste. Stir up at night and bake in the morning. Drop by spoonfuls on buttered baking sheet.

Dumplings.—Take one cupful of buttermilk, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one cupful of flour, one egg and a little salt. Drop by spoonfuls on the boiling stew and cover quickly; cook eight minutes. Buttermilk dumplings are very tender and of good flavor.

22 Youths Killed By Automobiles

While Playing in the Streets During March Reports Commissioner Harnett—Most Lives Could Have Been Saved If Children Were Instructed in Keeping Out of Roadways.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, May 16.—Twenty-two children were killed and 910 injured by automobiles while playing in the streets in the month of March, according to statistics made public today by Motor Vehicle Commissioner Charles A. Harnett. During the same period 424 jaywalkers were run down and 526 pedestrians struck when they disregarded the signals of traffic officers at street intersections.

Of all accidents related to the operation of automobiles the type most conspicuous by the frequency of its occurrence is the collision of automobiles and pedestrians. In 3,295 accidents of this type 2,329 resulted from automobiles striking pedestrians and 588 were caused by the collision of two automobiles. Of the 22 children killed five were hitchhiking. In other cases the victims were playing outright in the streets or had run from the sidewalks on which they had been playing.

It is very evident from these figures that the lives of most of the children killed could have been saved if they had been impressively instructed in keeping out of the roadways. It is just as evident that an occasional warning to children does not have its effect, and that a campaign against this kind of carelessness is very essential if these accidents are to be avoided.

The statistics also reveal the fact that where the traffic officer's signals are carefully regarded very few accidents have occurred. The anxious and hurrying pedestrian, who tries to cross against the traffic officer's signal, invariably involved not only himself but others in these accidents. Jaywalkers interfered seriously with the orderly procedure of vehicular traffic, endangering not only themselves but frequently causing collisions when drivers were forced to make a sharp turn or stop suddenly to avoid hitting them.

The Motor Vehicle Bureau is seeking the cooperation of local authorities in making an intensive drive against the reckless walker in keeping with its drive against the reckless driver, and is being materially aided by the National Safety Council which already has assisted it in the formation of a statistical bureau and in applying obtained information to the best means of avoiding unnecessary accidents.

Queer Mock Marriage Ceremonies in India

There is a wonderful variety in the marriage customs in different parts of India.

In addition to the important ceremonies which are binding there are mock ceremonies. One of the most interesting is a custom prevailing in the south, which takes place on the first of the ceremonial days.

Before the day all arrangements for the couple have, of course, been made, but there is a mock ceremony of sending out the young man to find a suitable bride. Before marriage he is supposed to make a journey to Kasi, the modern Benares, and having armed himself with the books of the student, etc., he sets out on his long journey. But on his way he comes across a man who, after entering into conversation with him, informs him that he has a lovely daughter who would make a suitable wife.

After various discussions on the subject the arrangements are made and the youth returns to inform his parents of the proposals, after which the final decision is taken. This ceremony is still carried out, and it provides a splendid opportunity for teasing the young man.

There is an instruction in the laws of Manu which he is supposed to keep in mind in selecting his bride: "Let him not marry a girl with reddish hair, nor any deformed limb, nor one troubled with habitual sickness, nor one either with no hair or with too much, nor one immoderately talkative, nor one with inflamed eyes. Let him choose for a wife a girl whose form has no defect, who has an agreeable name, who walks gracefully, like a peacock, or like a young elephant, whose hair and teeth are moderate in size, whose body has exquisite softness."

Famous Landmark in Ancient English City

The town of Boston in Lincolnshire, from which Boston, Mass., takes its name, is remarkable for its imposing church tower which, rising to a height of two hundred and seventy feet, forms a landmark discernible for many miles around. The tower is locally known as "Boston Stump," and was undoubtedly intended as a guide for travelers both by land and sea. It is surrounded by a beautiful octagonal lantern tower, completed in 1600. History tells us that in 634 Saint Botolph, from whose name the word Boston is derived, built a monastery in "a wilderness untraversed by man," named London, and that out of this wilderness arose St. Botolph's town, or Boston. Boston is surrounded by fen country, and is situated five miles from the sea, to which it is connected by a waterway known as the Haven.

Countries Once United

During the Roman period Spain and Portugal were united. The territory was known as Lusitania. The Greek name was Iberia. Portugal was conquered by Spain and lost its independence in 1249. It recovered its independence by the revolution of 1640.

Make Your Home More Attractive

Remember a large easy comfortable davenport is so much more attractive than a park bench. The young man thinks so too. Make the boys and girls love their home. Attractive furniture will do more to make them like their home than anything else. Think this over. Dorothy Dix, Advisor to Girls, says to Mothers: "How do you know what sort of boys your daughters associate with if you do not make your home attractive so she will want to bring her friends there?" Good furniture the kind that we sell will certainly make the home more attractive than the other kind.

Revolutionary youth will of course indulge in a superior smile over Dean Inge's possibly mistaken but highly interesting opinion that the Victorian period from 1810 to 1880 was the best one to live in since creation.

It is to be expected that there should be many monarchists in Germany only seven years after the fall of that system. There are still some few of them in France, 55 years after the establishment of the present republic.

The ever and everywhere popular Prince of Wales is a linguist as well as a diplomat of personal charm. It seems that he successfully employed the Dutch language in addressing a widely enthusiastic meeting of Boers and Englishmen at Cape Town.

Kansas politicians kept a land office open in Topeka at Federal expense for years after there was no more government land to be given away, but at last it has been ordered closed and the records shipped to Washington. Real economy, that.

Prohibition officials of New York are reported to be "agreed that smuggling can be stopped if the coast guards remain honest." Doubtless this important "if" is dependent on another even more important—if the coast guards can be kept away from temptation.

Governor "Ma" Ferguson has made her 6-year-old grandson a uniformed colonel on her staff. Such matters and soft-hearted pardons seem chiefly to interest her. It is not surprising to hear that the real governor is her husband and everybody freely acknowledges the fact.

Austin Chamberlain said recently that "restless brooding fear" haunted the capitals of Europe, and a later report of the British Foreign Office describes one-half of Europe as "dangerously angry" and the other half as "dangerously afraid"—conditions offering not any too much promise of continuing peace.

Women who regard it as a humiliation to take their husbands' name and cling to the names of their fathers seem to forget that the latter is as masculine as the former and that, while the woman who refuses to change her name at marriage does escape the seeming sinking of her identity in her husband's, she remains a party to a like discrimination against her mother.

President Coolidge is receiving support for his economy program from sources least expected to assist. The Federal Trade Commission, one of the pets of the Wilson administration, which has caused business men more trouble than any other single branch of the government, assisted materially the other day when two of its Democratic members deliberately violated an order issued by the chairman. The publicity which followed showed the country quite clearly the type of activities of which the professional "commissioners" are capable. The recent spectacle will assist the President materially when he sends the estimates to Congress next fall. A similar spectacle in the Shipping Board a few weeks ago will strengthen the hands of the Chief Executive when the expenses of that organization come up for consideration. The two best bets in Washington today are that the functions and expenses of both of these institutions of the Wilson Administration will be curtailed within twelve months.

It begins to look very much as if the sea going bootleggers are in for some interesting experiences. General Andrews, the new Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, appears to have organized the prohibition forces on a strictly military basis and if he is as successful in his present assignment as he has been in the past, we may expect to see an immediate increase in the cost of certain imported beverages. The prices of grapes and apples likewise will soar and there will be a steady increase in that strictly American business—home brewing.

Meanwhile we regret, in all common sense, that the District Attorney of New York is planning to invoke a paragraph of the Volstead Act providing that informers shall be given half the fine paid by bootleggers whose arrests they cause. The government has encouraged a great many things but we did not believe that Uncle Sam would ever deliberately encourage the development of informers or "stool pigeons." That is not American. It is Russian.

Public Health Is Purchasable

Says H. R. Richards, Director of the Division of Public Health Education, in a Radio Health Talk Broadcast From Station WGY on Friday Evening.

Call attention specifically to the lessened typhoid rate, to the marked decrease in diphtheria deaths and to the saving of baby lives, all resulting from the wise expenditure of public funds, B. R. Richards, director of the division of public health education of the state department of health, spoke over the radio Friday evening from Station WGY, on the subject, "Public Health Is Purchasable."

"At first thought," said Mr. Richards, "you may not appreciate such a statement, for public health is not a commodity you can buy at the corner drug store. Nevertheless it is purchasable and it is up to you as a citizen to see that your community does purchase it. If you will listen for a few moments I will endeavor to show you how it can be done."

"Twenty-five years ago there were many cities in this country and quite a number in this state which took their public water supplies from sources badly polluted by sewage. This practice resulted in many cases of typhoid fever and other intestinal diseases and a large number of deaths. Today most of these cities are taking their water from the same sources but their typhoid rates are now low because they have paid thousands to purify and disinfect their water. Such work pays for itself many times over. Every case of typhoid fever and every death therefrom costs several hundred dollars in addition to the loss of income often suffered by the patient. Nevertheless many communities are still using water of doubtful purity. Is yours in that class? It will pay you to find out. Have you gone to your physician and received the three protective inoculations that will prevent your having typhoid fever? It will cost you very little and it may save your life."

"Thirty years ago over one-third of the children who caught diphtheria died; today only one out of fifteen loses his life from this disease. This result has been accomplished by the use of diphtheria antitoxin which the New York State Department of Health makes and furnishes free to all who need it. Furthermore within the past few years a way has been discovered by which it is possible to protect people for life against this dreaded disease. A very large proportion of the children of the city of Auburn have received this protection and the diphtheria rate has shown a corresponding drop. Has your community done as much? If not, why? The cost is not great. If the authorities of the place in which you live have not provided this protection we advise that you take all children in your family between the ages of six months and 12 years to your family physician for toxin-antitoxin inoculations."

"Before pasteurization of milk became common in New York city the death rate among infants under one year from diarrheal diseases was very large, especially during the months of July and August. Since the enforcement of a regulation forbidding the sale of milk of lower grade than B. pasteurized, the death rate among these babies has fallen tremendously showing that impure raw milk is responsible for most of the sickness and the deaths in children of this age. Does your community require that all milk under Grade A shall be pasteurized? If not, why? Is it not well worth while to pay the added cost for pasteurized milk to accomplish such a result and also to protect yourself from the diseases which are so often carried by milk?"

"Other instances might be quoted to prove that many kinds of sickness may be prevented provided you, or your community, are willing to pay the necessary price. If the health authorities of the place in which you live are not doing all the things which we have intimated might be done, find out what salary is being paid the health officer and how much is being spent for health work. Compare these figures with what is being paid for the fire or police chief and the cost of running these departments. Are not your health and your life worth more than your property? If so, are you not willing to pay at least as much for health protection as you do for the protection of your property?"

"Public Health Is Purchasable—how much are you or your community actually paying for it?"

PREVENTION.

The late John B. Murphy, one of the world's greatest surgeons said: "If I had my life to live once again, I would unhesitatingly select the field of internal medicine."

The thought of course is that while it is wonderful to attack the forces of the body with the knife in a bold manner, nevertheless the ability to foresee what causes these troubles, and to forestall them is a bigger and more wonderful thing.

Everyone recognizes that the body has its own fighting forces within itself. Something of a foreign nature gets in the body and every part of the body immediately gets busy in an attempt to dislodge the invader.

This invader may be unusually strong, and every ounce of the fighting or protective strength of the body is required to combat it. At other times the invader is not so strong, and the body has very little trouble with it.

In the same family two youngsters will be struck down with the same childish ailment, possibly scarlet fever, and one will have a deep rash covering the entire body, the other will not be at all sick, and rash scarcely noticeable, until the skin begins to peel.

One might explain this by the fact that the child with the slight rash resembled one of the parents who had a severe attack of scarlet fever, and had set up a fair amount of immunity for the child.

However, our research friends are now telling us that this ability or lack of ability to fight off ailments, rests with the ductless glands, particularly the thyroid in the neck, and the adrenals which rest on the kidneys.

The activity of these two, in turn, is dependent upon another tiny gland in the skull, the pituitary gland. It would seem that just as the wireless, the airplane, and other discoveries have presented problems for man to conquer, so has this field of the ductless glands, presented a problem that has only been solved in part.

Getting Rid of Germs

Daddy was confined to the house with influenza and mother was busy sterilizing the dishes which had come from the sick-room.

"Why do you do that?" asked four-year-old Donald.

"Because, dear, poor daddy has germs, and the germs get on the dishes. I boil the dishes and that kills the germs."

Donald turned this over in his mind for several minutes, then: "Mother, why don't you boil daddy?"

Health makes and furnishes free to all who need it. Furthermore within the past few years a way has been discovered by which it is possible to protect people for life against this dreaded disease. A very large proportion of the children of the city of Auburn have received this protection and the diphtheria rate has shown a corresponding drop. Has your community done as much? If not, why? The cost is not great. If the authorities of the place in which you live have not provided this protection we advise that you take all children in your family between the ages

FRANCE'S ADEN
IN SOMALILANDJibuti Represents Republic's
Only Continental Territory in East Africa.

Washington. — French adventurers have recently made the first crossing of northern Africa by automobile from the coast of Guinea on the Atlantic to Jibuti, in French Somaliland, on the Indian ocean, a distance of 3,750 miles. The little patch of French Somaliland, where the journey ended, represents France's only continental territory in East Africa, says the National Geographic society, which describes the region in a bulletin issued from its Washington headquarters:

"French Somaliland is a small reality that France has held on to in northeastern Africa after the collapse of a dream of empire in that region, when the famous Fashoda incident occurred. French troops camped at Fashoda on the Upper Nile in 1898 and planned co-operation with Abyssinia in fending a band of French territory all the way across northern Africa. But the appearance of Kitchener's forces discouraged the idea and the French expedition passed on to Somaliland, leaving the Sudan to undisputed British control."

"Parts of French Somaliland have been in the possession of France since 1864 when the port of Obok was bought; but the place was not occupied until 1884 when France became concerned over the occupation of the neighboring island of Perim—the Gibraltar of the Red sea—by Great Britain. Within the next few years French control was extended to territory in the vicinity of Obok, and the present region, about 5,800 square miles in extent, was marked out."

"A glance at the map shows the strategic value of the colony. Its coast forms one shore of the Strait of Bab el Mandeb, the gateway to the Red sea. Jibuti, which in 1896, superseded Obok as the capital and chief city, is a French Aden, and is situated directly across the Gulf of Aden and about 150 miles from that important British station. Into Jibuti put French ships of war and trade bound through the Suez canal to Madagascar, French Indo-China and other French possessions of the East. Its function as a supply and coaling depot brought prosperity to the port. Port for 'Imperial Ethiopian Railway.'"

"Jibuti's great economic importance, however, arises from the fact that it is the salt water terminus of the only railway which taps the riches of Abyssinia. Started in 1896, the line was incomplete for many years, extending only a relatively short distance into Abyssinia. It was pushed to completion during the World war, reaching Addis Ababa, capital of Abyssinia. Trade passing through Jibuti jumped with the establishment of this steel highway, and in 1918 reached $20,000,000."

"The country traversed by the 'Imperial Ethiopian Railway' is still inhabited by rather wild and unruly tribes. Its trains are operated only in the daytime. When the first locomotive ran over the line the ignorant natives thought it a sort of super-lion, and rushing in its path, threw spears against its steel front and sides. The loss of legs and arms taught them that the new beast was invulnerable to their weapons, but they still harbor a keen resentment against the railway and its trains. The railway exists largely for political reasons and was built at a tremendous cost. Before the World war the passenger fare was about 25 cents a mile. The increase of business, however, is putting a different economic complexion on the project. The products brought out of Abyssinia consist in the main of coffee, ivory, hides and skins."

"It took imagination and the ability to look far into the back country and into the future to see any economic value in French Somaliland at the time France began her acquisitions there. The coast and a coastal strip of considerable width is one of the most desolate regions imaginable, consisting of sand and volcanic rocks, with here and there patches of low scrub. The Gulf of Tadjura, 28 miles wide at the mouth, bites into the land to a depth of 36 miles. Cliffs of volcanic stone form the shores of this gulf for many miles, giving way in places to tumbled masses of volcanic debris. Some five miles inland from the tip of the gulf is Lake Assal, Somaliland's 'Little Dead Sea.' The surface of this lake, five miles long by four miles wide, lies nearly 500 feet below sea level."

Jibuti Coveted by Italy.
"Supplies of underground water have been located and tapped by the French, and garden plots established where before the French advent all was desolation. On the upland plains inland antelope and other game abound. Lions and leopards are also found in considerable numbers."

"Italy wanted France to cede Jibuti to her at the time she entered the World war on the side of the allies. France would not part with her valuable coaling station and door to Abyssinia even in those trying times, but instead made Italy a concession on the Tripoli-Tunisia frontier. Jibuti is a town of white buildings, for the most part one-story structures. It numbers less than 10,000 inhabitants, of which about 300 are Europeans, the remainder being a lodge-podge of Somali and other African natives, Armenians, Jews, Arabs and East Indians."

Introduced Grapefruit

A Spanish explorer, Ponce de Leon, is credited with having brought grapefruit to Florida when he landed on the east coast of the state in the year 1513. During the three centuries that the Spaniards possessed the state with their Old World grapes, bellows was done to bring the grapefruit, or any of the other citrus fruits introduced in Florida, to this time, agreed to distribute them in the southern part of the state.

Petroleum's Origin

The origin of petroleum is a matter of much speculation. It is probably produced in part by the slow decomposition of both animal and vegetable matter deeply buried in sedimentary rocks; and in part by the fermentation and decay of organic matter at the earth's surface, the resulting oil being deposited contemporaneously with the rocks in which it is preserved. Some petroleum may also be produced by the action of water on deeply buried igneous carbonates.

Reason Enough

Newspaper space is the complete medium of advertising.

Complete, because it will accomplish all things that good advertising may be expected reasonably to accomplish.

It is not an adjunct or a supplement to any other kind of advertising.

For the national advertiser, it insures rapid and thorough retail distribution. Retailers want newspaper-advertised merchandise, because Newspaper advertising sells goods.

That is why the bulk of all advertising appears in the newspapers.

There are other reasons for the supremacy of newspaper advertising, but none so important as this—

It sells merchandise over the counter.

NOBODY CARED, LEAVES ESTATE FOR TOMBSTONE

Executor Has Nearly $14,000 to Spend for Her Monument.

Jersey City.—Over the grave of a friendless widow in the railroad-fenced Jersey City cemetery a monument costing between $12,000 and $14,000 is to be erected. It is to carry out her will that because she had no relatives or friends whom she cared anything about, or who cared a whit for her, her earthly all go into stone above her body.

The woman was Mrs. Anna M. Panghorn, who died here recently. She left her entire estate to former Police Judge Frank J. Higgins, a stranger to her, to hold in trust as executor, with instructions to sell her property and with the proceeds erect "a suitable monument, tombstone or other memorial" over her. Nearly $20,000 was realized, out of which came the cost of litigation and taxes.

Mrs. Panghorn was the third wife of John W. Panghorn, who was president of the Jersey City board of education. They moved to the Prospect Park neighborhood, Brooklyn, in the '90s. He died in 1907 and his widow returned to Jersey City, living in seclusion.

Three Contested Wills.

One day she mentioned to a neighbor that she wanted to make a will and she was referred to Judge Higgins. The will was drawn according to her wishes, in July, 1918.

Bank deposits, bonds, mortgages and jewelry were listed in the probate of the will after her death, seven months later.

The Will Was Declared Legal.

Three persons appeared, seeking to upset the will. They were John Davies, a nephew, and Gertrude and Frances Fitzsimmons, nieces. The will was declared legal. The proceeding cost the estate $2,500.

Charwoman Got $400.

As items were sold the money was deposited in the Commercial Trust company, Jersey City. Taxes took some and $400 was paid to a woman who said she worked for Mrs. Panghorn by the day for years without pay, being content with a promise of being remembered in her will.

The last legal obstacle having been removed, Mr. Higgins has decided he has no alternative but to carry out the widow's direction and erect the monument.

It will have inscribed on it the name Davies, in memory of her father, and the name Panghorn. A single small tombstone inscribed "Jane Davies, wife of John Davies," now is on the 14 by 14-foot cemetery plot.

From railroad yards on either side of the cemetery smoke has begrimed the tombstones. Superintendent Bradhurst of the cemetery says a handsome monument such as is to be erected will be ruined in a short time, unless provision is made to care for it. Mr. Higgins says he is authorized, as executor, to devote the entire funds to the monument.

Saves Crippled Husband; Wife Loses Her Own Life

Endicott, N. Y.—Mrs. Lella M. Teetzel of this city was burned to death when she returned to her burning apartment to save her crippled husband, Richard M. Teetzel, to safety. Mr. Teetzel was seriously burned.

The couple were trapped by the fire in a bedroom off the kitchen of their second-floor apartment. Teetzel, with both legs severed above the knees, was powerless to save himself. His wife took him in her arms and, fighting her way through the flames, carried him downstairs to safety.

Then she returned before any one could restrain her to obtain valuables left in the apartment. She did not reappear, and when the fire was extinguished 30 minutes later her charred body was found on the kitchen floor.

Physician Saves Boy's Life in Notable Manner

Milwaukee.—Pinching with his fingers a severed end of sixteen-year-old Francis Burdick's jugular vein, literally holding a life in his hands, Dr. Harold Nebel checked what would have been a fatal hemorrhage after an automobile knocked the boy from his bicycle. For fifteen minutes Doctor Nebel, who chance to be on the scene when the boy was bowled over, held firmly the hand that stayed death. Then he carried the boy into a police ambulance and kept his hand in position all the way to a hospital, where the severed vein was sutured. The boy's recovery is expected.

FIND MILLIONS IN THIEVES' DEN

Fantastic Underworld Office Reveals Much Treasure.

New York.—Two men were arrested one night recently, charged with being members of a band of robbers and bootleggers whose cache of stolen goods estimated to be worth as much as $1,000,000 was discovered in an old two-story building on South street.

The suspects said they were Patrick Mitchell, a laborer, and Max Price, a salesman, both of New York. They are charged specifically with stealing from the warehouse of Pincus, Sachs & Company, $30,000 worth of woollens, which were found in the warehouse.

They denied the charges. Police are also questioning two men who said they were employed as watchmen at the building and were ignorant of the fact that it housed stolen goods. Police in their raid on the warehouse found great stores of fabrics of all kinds, leathers, dyes, canned goods, cigarettes and cigars, between 75 and 100 barrels of alcohol and liquor, and in the basement two large stills which, apparently, had been in recent operation. They found a fleet of 22 trucks, some of which have been identified as recently stolen.

They found desks, telephones, filing cabinets, typewriters, correspondence and other indications that this was the headquarters of an extensive mail-order business conducted by a highly organized bandit and bootlegger band. They found secret doors and stairways, with an ingenious buzzer signal system; a trick safe concealed in a wall and a trapdoor operated by electricity; a store of six shooters; altogether a fantastic combination of a modern big business office and a dime novel bandit's lair.

Shortly after police had broken into the place a mail carrier delivered a batch of letters, which were turned over to postal inspectors. It is hoped through these and the mass of correspondence found, to trace mail-order purchasers and to get on the trail of the bandits themselves.

Paralytic for Six Years,

Runs to Escape Maniac

Kearney, N. J.—Before Peter Grenato, who in a fit of homicidal mania attempted to strangle three nurses and two patients at the Stumpf Memorial hospital here, was overpowered, he so frightened Fred Kleber of Lyndhurst, N. J., who has been a cripple for six years, that Kleber sprang from his bed and dashed up a flight of stairs, and is now thought to be cured.

Kleber, who is thirty-eight years old, had been crippled in an automobile accident at Plainfield six years ago. Since then, owing to injuries to the spine, he has been unable to walk without crutches or canes. He had received treatment in several hospitals, and had been moved to Stumpf hospital a short time ago for examination, and had been operated on a week before Grenato's attack.

Kleber forgot he was paralyzed. He jumped out of bed, mounted the stairs three steps at a time, and was found later by hospital attendants sitting on a chair on the second floor of the hospital, with a happy expression on his face.

Charges Husband Burned

Initials on Her Back

San Francisco.—Mrs. Dolores Winfree charged her husband, Theodore Winfree, a sailor, with burning his initials on her back with a hot iron when she obtained a warrant charging him with assault and battery. The brand, which Mrs. Winfree exhibited, was burned into her skin, she said, when her husband believed other men were attentive to her.

Cochran, aged seventy, and well to do, ended when detectives told Mrs. Cochran they had found her husband washing dishes in a Panama hotel "to raise money to return to Detroit and get a divorce." They were married in the East last year.

Dies by Fire

Chicago.—After sustaining her clothes with alcohol, Mrs. Bernice DeMa, 407 West Twenty-third street, mother of five children, set fire to her clothing and burned to death in her home. She is said to have been dependent over domestic troubles.

A Saving of $36,000,000

According to the most conservative calculation, American motorists pay $36,000,000 a year for chassis lubrication.

And that sum represents but a fraction of the saving that motorists would enjoy if all cars were, like the Cleveland Six, equipped with the

"One-Shot" Lubrication System

(Classed under Brown Products Co. patents)

This exclusive, high pressure system does more than eliminate the actual cost of having a garage or service station lubricate vital bearings.

It eliminates the inconvenience of leaving the car to have it done or of doing the job yourself. It reduces service, maintenance, and depreciation costs. And it guarantees a properly functioning, smoothly operating car at all times.

For you simply step on a plunger and every moving part is flushed with clean, live lubricant. Any Cleveland Six dealer will show you.

What's the Leader?

Statistics show that for years an overwhelming percentage of America's great business buildings have been covered with Barrett Built-up Roofs. Sound reasons for this—

There are many roofs of this type, built 40 years or more ago, that are still in good condition.

In brief, their durability is proved—not estimated. It pays to see that any built-up roof is a pitch and felt roof—and that both pitch and felt bear the Barrett Label.

C. E. Convention 1925 Calendar At Buffalo in June In Politics

Many From Ulster County Planning to Attend State Convention to be Held June 20-22—Planning for Biggest Convention in C. E. History.

Ulster county Christian Endeavor Societies are planning to send a big delegation to the state Christian Endeavor convention to be held in Elmwood Music Hall, Buffalo, on June 20-22, and plans are being made to make it the biggest state convention ever held.

William Green, new president of the American Federation of Labor, is expected to be one of the speakers at the convention. Among other notable speakers appearing on the convention program are: Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general of the United States in charge of prohibition cases; Dr. G. Campbell Morgan, London, noted Bible student; Dr. James Kelly, Glasgow, Scotland, president of the European Christian Endeavor Union; Dr. Norman E. Richardson, Northwestern University, who will give daily talks on religious education, and many others.

Dr. Daniel A. Poling, assistant president of the World's C. E. Union, and the Hon. Frederick A. Wallis, state union president, who have both spoken in Kingston, are also on the convention program.

The song leader of the convention will be Percy S. Foster of Washington. He has been in charge of the music at presidential inaugurations for many years and is a well known C. E. leader.

Plans have been made for an outing and mass meeting at Niagara Falls. Other features of the four-day gathering will be many conferences, the daily "quiet hour" meetings, banquets, exhibits, denominational rallies and a complete convention for junior Endeavorers.

Issued by Secretary of State Florence E. S. Knapp—Dates for Important Political Events—Chief Interest in Assembly Elections.

By Telegraph to The Freeman: Albany, May 16.—Starting to simmer on June 30, the first day for signing designating petitions, bubbling on September 15, when the fall primary will be held, the political pot in New York state will boil over this year on November 3, when the general election will be held. A political calendar has been issued by Florence E. S. Knapp, secretary of state, and containing all information leading up to next fall's election. Registration this year in New York city will run from October 5 to 10, inclusive, and in cities and villages of 5,000 or more, outside the metropolis, where personal registration is necessary, on October 9, 10, 16 and 17. Last winter's legislature made few changes in the election law.

The same number of signatures will be necessary on primary petitions as well as in connection with independent nominations. Designating petitions are to be filed this year from August 11 to August 18, and August 21 has been settled upon as the last day to decline designations. No changes have been made in the hours of the fall primary.

State and judicial conventions can be held as early as September 23, with September 29 as the last day for filing nominations and October 2 for filing declarations. Chief interest this coming fall will center around the election of assemblymen, although there are four proposed amendments to the constitution that are to be submitted to the people.

There are three recognized parties in the state, and their order on the general election ballot is:

Democrat
Republican
Socialist
The color of each party's primary ballot is: Democrat, green; Republican, cherry; Socialist, canary (yellow).

NOVEL TOUCHES.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

Fashion has apparently no intention of permitting us to settle down indefinitely to plain beige and nude stockings, no matter how varied in tone they may be. She makes a gesture toward novelty, as any survey of what is being shown will indicate. She includes a friendly encouragement toward bright stockings—even to reds and greens for sportswear—and is even inclined to countenance matching up of hose, for other occasions, with the dress with which they are worn.

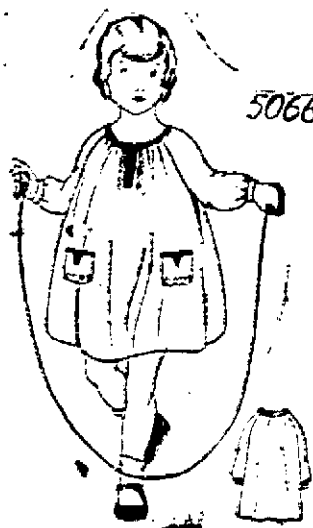

Tragedy

IRENE HUNT, and THOMAS HENDL.

"Widowed" the night before her wedding, Irene Hunt suffered the ordeal of seeing the body of Thomas Hendl, victim of a train accident, carried into his North Bergen, N. J. home at the hour when he had planned to take her there as his wife.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

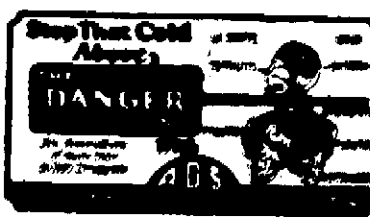

A Dainty Frock for a "Little Maid." 5066. This will be charming in any of the new shades in linen or chambray, pique or voile, with trimmings in a contrasting color. It is also attractive in white, crepe or crepe de chine.

The pattern is cut in 5 sizes: J, 2, 3, 4 and 5 years. A 3 year size requires 1 1/2 yards of 36 inch material.

Another French fad, practical as well as amusing, is the introduction of a tiny electric light bulb in the handle of one's umbrella.

Fashion Book Notice.
Send 15c in coin or stamps to The Freeman for our up-to-date Spring and summer 1925 Book of Fashions, showing color plates, and containing 100 designs of ladies', misses' and children's patterns, a concise and comprehensive article on dressmaking, also some points for the needle (illustrating 30 of the various staple stitches), all valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

THE LARGER HAT HAS ARRIVED.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

The June trousseau is not complete without a large bandbox, for, as the sun climbs higher in the heavens, brims broaden. It is not a question which may be answered with a yes or no, this question as to whether large or small hats are to be smartest. They are not really interchangeable in their purposes.

There is no question of the tailleur and sports frock looking best with a small hat, and hardly a question about the greater harmony of a large hat with the soft summer type of dress.

Among the most interesting—and, therefore, important—trimmings is velvet—ribbon or otherwise—and novel leathers, the latter more or less restricted to sports and trotteur wear. There are stunning plaid leathers, mottled effects, and the now familiar gilded leathers, and, these being very soft, they are subject to any number of interesting uses—usually combined with straw.

Velvet and straw are now recognized affinities, straw varying from transparent hair braids to Milane. The navy blue hat has been reestablished this spring, and purples, reds, greens and all the blonde and wood shades are so alluring that the black hat has a difficult time retaining even its most loyal sponsors—unless it is Bangkok—a prime favorite this season.

CHARMING VERSIONS OF THE CAPELINE FOR SUMMER.

A capeline of green, white and pink, orcasie superimposed, is trimmed with green silk flowers and edged with white rickrack braid.

The layer idea is also introduced in a hat of chocolate colored tulle, which has shadow lace leaves between the two layers.

Black satin and a lace made of straw are combined in a large hat, the satin draped around the crown and banding the brim.

Betting Odds On Old Eli

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Derby, Conn., May 16.—"Yale to win" was the prediction freely expressed today as the hour for the Yale-Princeton-Cornell varsity boat race neared.

The colorful crowd, brightly gown-ed co-eds, their attentive boy friends, old grads and rowing fans of all descriptions, drawn to the shores of the beautiful Housatonic by the fascinating spectacle of the "derbyday" regatta, came in droves by special trains and automobiles, carrying colored parasols and pennants, the Blue of Yale, the Red and White of Cornell and the Orange and Black of Princeton.

The race is two miles over one of the finest streams for rowing in the east.

Yale backers, inspired by the repeated success of their "Olympic championship crew," offered betting odds of two to one on Old Eli but there were few takers.

Yale, undefeated this year, meets two beaten crews. Princeton got the backwash of the Navy on May 2 and Cornell finished a sad last on the Charles last Saturday. Both Princeton and Cornell, however, are reported to have improved since they suffered these defeats.

Ten thousand persons, it was estimated, will view the race from the river banks. There will be 32 cars on the observation train.

In addition to the feature varsity event, there will be races between junior crews and freshmen crews and also a Penley distance race between three crews made up of 150 pounders from Yale, Harvard and Princeton.

YALE INTERSCHOLASTIC TRACK MEET TODAY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New Haven, Conn., May 16.—Star athletes of the thirty-one schools gathered here today to participate in the twenty-third annual Yale interscholastic track meet. As guests of the Yale Athletic Association participants in the meet spent the night at local hotels and were entertained in various Yale institutions during the evening. Hill School, winner of the meet for four consecutive years was again the favorite this year and if it wins today the Pennsylvania institution will gain permanent possession of the principal trophy.

While the track meet is underway fourteen schools will seek the Yale interscholastic tennis championship. Many school boy stars are entered for the matches, including Loomis Institute's two strong players, Malcolm Hill, former national junior champion, and B. M. Whitbeck, holder of the Harvard interscholastic championship.

Schillings Beat The Freeman.
The Freeman baseball team was defeated by the Schilling Furniture Company team Friday night in a five inning contest, score 5 to 2.

Tagging Major League Bases

The Giants swamped the Reds again, 7 to 2. Snyder's homer in the second clinching in enough runs to win. The Reds dropped to fourth place.

Brooklyn and St. Louis engaged in an old fashioned slugfest match. When the smoke cleared away the Dodgers were on top, 8 to 7.

The Phillies advanced to the dizzy heights of third place by handling the Cubs an 8 to 4 defeat.

The Tigers got a three run lead on the Athletics but Dutch Leonard couldn't hold it. The league leaders scored six runs in the sixth and won by a whisker 8 to 7.

The Yanks made six errors against the White Sox but the blunders were less costly than one wild throw by Willie Kamm. Two Yankees scored on the home with the runs that won the game, 6 to 5.

The Red Sox proved they are in mid-summer form by losing their fourth straight to the Indians, 10 to 7.

The Browns sacrificed six pitchers in an effort to stop the slugging Senators, who won easily, 12 to 7. Sisler ran his consecutive hitting streak to thirty games.

What Will They Do With Thirty Cents?

Harry Savage, Jr., New Britain, Conn., fifteen-year-old captain of a baseball team, has received a dozen brand new big league baseballs instead of an old one for his team.

The youngster wrote Maj. John L. Griffith, executive vice president of the National Amateur Athletic Federation, which is conducting a campaign to revive amateur baseball among youths, asking for an old ball. The boy added that the finances of his organization had been reduced to 30 cents.

When George Huff, director of athletics at the University of Illinois, and a firm believer in boys' sports, was advised of the appeal he volunteered to send the balls.

MANAGER MCGRAW IS VERY CONSERVATIVE

Not Willing to Make Any Statement as to Final Standing of Giants.

"It is too risky a thing to pick a four consecutive-time winner of a pennant to repeat again," said Manager J. J. McGraw of the New York Giants to a representative of the Christian Science Monitor. "For that reason I shall decline to make any statement relative to the final standing of the Giants, although I will say that the club is as strong, if not stronger than last year."

This is the conservative stand taken by Manager McGraw and it is well warranted. There are too many things that might crop out in a team which has won four straight pennants, chiefly among these is overconfidence. Overconfidence in a team is nearly as detrimental as underconfidence for it makes the team play listless. However, with the leadership of McGraw as the biggest obstacle to overconfidence that one can think of, the Giants look as though they might repeat for a record for all time.

"There is one big reason why I might consider the Giants stronger this year," said McGraw, "and that is the extremely fine showing of our right-handed pitchers. Our strongest opponent will probably be Pittsburgh, but we cannot underestimate any of the clubs. It does not pay. Underestimation of other clubs gives overconfidence the chance to creep in, just as well as overestimation of one's own team's ability."

"I will continue the shifting of G. L. Kelly and William Terry from the outfield to first base, according to the pitching we face this year. Terry hit for only about .239 last season, but I expect him to improve tremendously. The veteran pitchers, A. N. Nehf and J. N. Bentley are fully as effective as a year ago."

"Norway's Nurmi" Coming to the United States

Charles Hoff, Norwegian all-around athlete and holder of the world's pole vault record, plans to come to the United States to make his home in this country, according to word received from Oslo, capital of Norway.

Hoff who was characterized during the last Olympics as the "world's greatest all-around athlete" by Head Coach Lawson Robertson of the American team, agreed to come here early in the winter for the Millrose A. A. indoor carnival. Complications in his affairs at home, however, prevented him from making the trip at that time. Hoff, whose pole vault record is 13 feet 9 1/4 inches was unable to compete in his favorite event at the Olympics because of a heel bruise. He ran in the 800 meters, however, and was placed in the finals.

McAuley Doing Well

Jimmy McAuley, veteran shortstop secured from Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast league, to fill the place made vacant by the injury to "Rabbit" Maranville, is making a decided hit with Chicago Cubs fans by his clever fielding and timely hitting.

Record Crowd at Churchill Downs

Kentucky Derby Brings Racing Enthusiasts from All Sections—Field So Evenly Balanced That Outstanding Choice Is Difficult.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Louisville, Ky., May 16.—Nature knew better than to duplicate the Grand Canyon. A lioness gives birth to only one cub, but it is a lion. They found one Kohinoor, and one only, in the Kimberley fields, and if Homer wrote another Iliad, he was smart enough not to let it see the light of day.

Likewise, there is only one Kentucky Derby, and it will be held this afternoon with historic Churchill Downs fairly inundated by what is expected to be the largest crowd that ever viewed an American sport classic. Preparations have been made to accommodate upward of 100,000 "citizens of the type who cannot take their racing or let it alone."

No Choice.
As certain as the orthodox Mohammedan's annual pilgrimage to Mecca, these lovers of thoroughbred lines come to Churchill Downs and year by year converts, as zealous as your seventeenth century Puritan, have added thousands to the invading army until today the event has grown out of all proportion to the conception of its originator.

Their pilgrimage today will not be a vain one, for every indication points to one of the most sensational Derbies of modern years. Favorites there are in plenty, but no real outstanding choice, so evenly balanced is the field.

There is, for example, Quattrain, of the Frederick Johnson stable. He won the rich New Orleans handicap and other stake races, so impressively that he would be an overwhelming choice in almost any other year.

He is highly esteemed, but so, also, is Kentucky Cardinal, who recently brought $50,000 in the open market; Mother Goose, winner of the Belmont Futurity; Lee O. Colner, who won the Golden Rod handicap; Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt's grey, colt, Nicholas, for which she paid $40,000; American Flag and By Himself, sons of Man o' War, the immortal; Kit Kat, specially imported from England to run in the Derby; Sunward, the Grand Union Hotel stakes winner; and Our General, who came home with the junior championship stakes.

In addition, quite a respectable bit of the so-called "wise money" will ride with Chantley, which suddenly came into popular favor a few days ago after the clockers watched him work over the course. There are some critics who insist that Chantley will be the best horse in the race, whether he wins or not.

Open Field.

Another highly considered entry is Scope, the Bad Fisher sennice, and a third is Captain Hal, whose workouts at the Downs have attracted much attention. Young Marston, Single Fend and The Rat are more than vague possibilities.

Public Service Commission Refuses Approval of Transferring Public Utility Companies' Control to Outside Corporation Without Satisfactory Reason.

By its ruling in a number of cases seeking the transfer of certain public utility properties in Dutchess, Putnam and Columbia counties, the Public Service Commission of New York State has given its disapproval to "the doubtful policy of permitting foreign corporations to enter upon the control of New York state service companies unless the strongest reasons exist for such procedure."

Petitions were presented to the commission for permission to transfer the franchises, works and systems of companies in the three counties to the Harlem Valley Electric Corporation.

These petitions have been denied by the commission. Also the commission has denied the petition by the Consumers Electric Service Corporation to acquire $50,000 worth of the stock of the Harlem Valley Company, and seven shares of the American Electric Light and Power Company.

The commission holds it to be undesirable for these New York companies to pass into control of a corporation which is not under control of the Public Service Commission and gives its reasons in a lengthy opinion.

On the hearing before the commission it was stated that the officers and directors of these companies including the Consumers Electric Service Corporation, are representatives of the J. G. White Management Corporation and the Associated Gas and Electric Company. In fact, according to testimony, the stocks of all the companies are owned by the same individuals and the mutual ownership brings about a condition where all of these properties are owned by these individuals. This being the case, no transfer of any of these properties as between these corporations would in any way affect the ultimate ownership. They were willing to have these properties transferred at a nominal consideration. The proposition was viewed more as an operating and an engineering problem, than a financial problem. In the case of the Cold Spring Light, Heat & Power Company, a consideration was stated in the sum of $55,000.

The Consumers Electric Service Corporation sought to acquire $50,000 of the common capital stock of the Harlem Valley Electric Corporation, consequently the Consumers Company would be in control of the Harlem Valley Electric Corporation, which proposes to acquire the franchises, works and systems of the other petitioning companies.

The Consumers Electric Service Corporation is a foreign corporation organized under the laws of the State of Delaware. Its certificate of incorporation gives it very broad powers, although its financial statement filed with the petition indicates that at the present time it is only a holding company.

In its opinion, the Public Commission says:

I believe that a combination of these companies (excluding the Consumers Electric Service Corporation), under one general operating management which would eliminate all unnecessary overhead charges and bring about essential economies in operation, would be in the public interest, and I would not hesitate to say that such a combination of these companies is desirable. It is just as important, however, that the combination, if effected should be upon a proper financial basis and that the properties should be fairly capitalized and, all unnecessary property eliminated from operation, in order that the consumers will get the benefit of better service and equitable rates, but such a result, desirable as it is, might be entirely negated if the properties should be controlled by interests not subject to the jurisdiction of this commission.

Why it should be necessary to resort to the expedient of putting these companies in control of a Delaware corporation, has not been disclosed, and certainly no sufficient public reason has been offered therefore. It is difficult to even conjecture what genuine public interest could be served thereby.

The same interests control all of the New York State Companies concerned in these petitions. It certainly should be possible to present a plan which would in a satisfactory way bring about a commendable combination of these companies. The petitions in their present form do not accomplish this and should therefore be denied, and an order to that effect is submitted.

All concur.

Wells Will Not Debate Bryan

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, May 16.—H. G. Wells, author and writer, on the advance of civilization and the theory of evolution, will not take part in the controversy brought about in Tennessee by the alleged violation of the state anti-evolution law by Professor J. T. Scopes, Wells said today.

Wells had been invited by Professor John A. Neal to defend Scopes by debating the subject of evolution with William J. Bryan.

"I know nothing about the case," said Wells today. "I am not interested. I don't see why I should be asked to defend. I guess there is a mistake; they have probably asked a lawyer named Wells to defend, not the novelist Wells."

Rum Row May Use Submarines

Few Survivors of Fleet of Rum Runners Off Atlantic Coast, But Government Gets Information Submarines Are Being Used to Land Liquor.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Rum Row, aboard the United States Coast Guard Cutter Pequot, May 16.—Submarines have entered the liquor smuggling business, according to information obtained by the coast guard today.

Photographs of under-sea craft indicating their use as rum runners have fallen into the hands of the secret agents of the anti-smuggling force. An investigation has been started.

From ten to twelve rum runners are still holding out against the government's naval attack, between New London, Conn., and Atlantic City, according to wireless reports to Commander W. J. Wheeler, on the flagship Mojave.

In spite of the government's concentration of a fleet of destroyers, cutters and a host of small craft, the few survivors on Rum Row are defiant.

They rallied at the government. They scorned its laws. They insisted that the coast guard cannot keep up its intensive campaign.

Within a month or two liquor will be pouring into the country at the old rate of about 500,000 cases a month, the rum men swear.

Every rum runner left on the Row is guarded by a coast guard vessel. Powerful searchlights play over the sea at night. All the "rumrunners" are spotted—with their picket escort never a mile away, they are as harmless as the yellow headed pins which mark their place on the flag-ship war map.

Destroyers, cutters and smaller boats are watching the hundreds of inlets along the coast. No vessel is permitted to go unsearched.

To keep liquor out of the United States, however, it appeared obvious that the facilities of the coast guard must be increased vastly.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, May 16.—High priced industrial stocks, specialties and public utility stocks continued their forward price movement in the short session of the market today.

The professionals dominated the speculative market and continued to push up prices of their favorite stocks. Bearish traders were brushed aside in the forward sweep of prices in utility and specialty stocks with strong pool backing.

Universal Pipe Common and Preferred sold about 3 points higher and American Water Works jumped 3 points to a new high at 58 1/2.

United States Steel pushed vigorously up to 117 1/2 on heavy trading. American Can reached a new high record of 191 1/2 as also did Mack Trucks which sold at 160 1/2, completing a gain of 11 points since Monday.

Railroad stocks were featureless with the exception of Ann Arbor Preferred, which was in demand.

Oil stocks again retired to the inactive list. Independent steel shares followed the advance in United States Steel with Bethlehem and Gulf States in the most active position. International Paper also was strong and active.

The market closed steady, with slight reactions in a number of the active industrial stocks and new forward movements in the utility stocks. American Water Works gained nearly four points.

Treasury and Liberty bonds registered fractionally on the high price levels of the week. Foreign government bonds were steady.

Settlement in Radio Action

Action of Charles F. Cole For Damage to Radio Against Ulster Electric Company Settled Out of Court.—Sealed Verdict Monday in Sears Action.

The settlement out of court of an action brought by Charles F. Cole of Saugerties against the Ulster Electric Light, Heat & Power Company for damages to a radio set closed an action of unusual interest to radio fans. The trial of the case might have involved many novel features, as the law in regard to radios, a recent invention, is very meager.

Mr. Cole sought damages from the company for the destruction of his radio which was destroyed when a high tension wire of the company came in contact with the aerial of his outfit. He sought further damages, claiming that as he could not read or write and had used the radio outfit to secure market reports and other valuable information. Being deprived of this use he asked for consequential damages, claiming his loss was severe through the loss of his outfit.

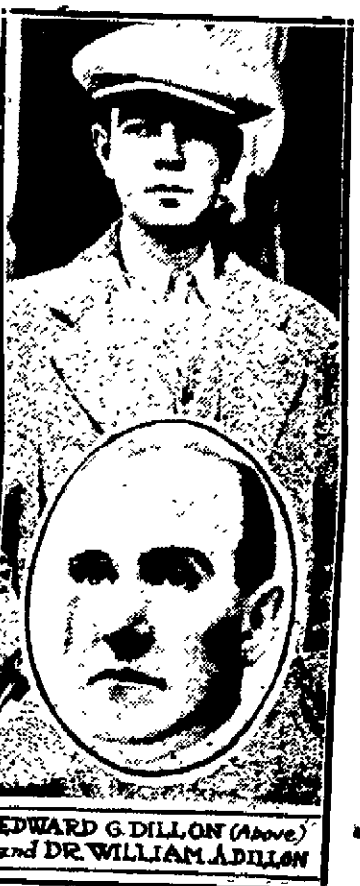

The defendant company denied any responsibility and set up in their answer that prior to the erection of the high tension line it had obtained permission from Mr. Cole to cross his property and to erect poles and string wires.

Grant M. Brinnier appeared for the plaintiff in the case and Judge A. T. Clearwater for the company.

Sears-Braveman Action.

The action for damages brought by Margaret Sears of Lake Katrine against Abraham Braveman of High Falls for damages for injuries and loss of wages was sent to the jury Friday with instructions to bring in a sealed verdict on Monday afternoon. She was a passenger in a car which collided with the Braveman car at the Cohen farm on Hurley avenue.

OLD RESIDENTS REMEMBER

NORTH FRONT STREET WELL

Several men who were residents of the upper part of this city say they remember the old well that was discovered under the sidewalk Friday, in front of the E. Hoyt Green market at 39 North Front street. There was a wooden pump there about fifty years ago and the residents of the neighborhood visited the pump daily and filled pails and buckets with water from the well for drinking and cooking purposes. The stone of the wells of the well which is dry laid, no cement being used, is a fine piece of stone cutters' work the face of each stone being cut on a curve.

Various Devices to

Test Precious Stones

With increased facilities for faking diamonds and other precious stones, the traffic in imitation goods in this line of business is increasing to an alarming extent, and diamond merchants and jewelers nowadays have perforce to devote a lot of time, and often expense, to the detection of the frauds.

When once a jeweler suspects the genuineness of a stone, he subjects it to various and sometimes very severe tests. When a stone, for instance, is placed in clear water, and starts to lose its brilliancy, it is immediately discarded as being spurious. Another test is to place a drop of water on the gem. If the globule breaks on being touched with the point of a pencil, the stone is an imitation.

Sometimes a black dot is made on a piece of white paper, and the precious stone held in front of it. If the dot appears blurred, the diamond is faked.

Another determining factor is the hardness of a stone. As is well known, a diamond is one of the hardest-known substances, and may be filed without being scratched. An imitation diamond, on the other hand, will crack and probably break up under the weight of the file.

How Phone Plugs Are Constructed

An "Inside View" of This Handy Little Piece of Apparatus.

The construction of a phone plug is an interesting subject in itself to anyone who has not had the opportunity to dissect one.

In the illustration are shown the "insides" of one well-known telephone plug. In the first step in the assembly the phone tip receptacle "E" is fastened to the base of the plug of which "D" is a threaded screw for holding the cover of the plug and "C" is the knurled rim of the plug. "B" is the shank of the plug and "A" is a hard rubber tube.

"Needle" Insulation. In the second sketch is shown the receptacle "H" for the other phone tip, which is fastened to a steel needle, "F" which is threaded at both ends. An insulating gasket, "G," is placed between the terminal and the base of the plug.

The hard rubber tube is placed on the steel needle to insulate it from the shank of the plug.

In the third sketch the large headed machine screws "I" are mounted in the terminals for holding the phone tips. A fiber gasket is placed on the steel needle and the brass tip of the plug is screwed on.

Tip Construction.

The tip of the phone plug is screwed down tightly, the end of the steel needle cut off and then riveted down over the tip. This construction detail has two very good features in that it prevents the tip from ever becoming loose and coming off, and the end of the steel needle, rather than the soft wearing brass of the tip, is presented where the most frictional wear takes place.

The insulating cover for the plug is next screwed onto the threaded base of the plug "D" and the manufacturing process is complete.

Avoid plugs that have loose tips that can be unscrewed readily, terminals that are insecurely fastened and plugs that use poor insulating materials at "A" and "G."

Pay Special Attention to Sockets and Tubes

The humble socket, used to hold the vacuum tube and to provide the means of making an electrical contact between the prongs of the tube and the rest of the circuit, receives less attention from the radio fan than it should.

The socket should be carefully scrutinized, for it is at this point that the plate and grid wires and filament leads come very close to each other. If the socket is made of poor insulating material these currents will leak across the base between the binding posts and become lost. The volume and distance of the receiver will suffer. Nothing less than bakelite should be used.

Do not accept a socket made of material that can be easily cut with a knife or will leave a black mark when rubbed across a piece of white paper. Material that will do this has insulating substance. As a rule this class of material will melt under the heat of a soldering iron.

Of next importance are the contact springs. Poor contact springs cause a great deal of the noise that is attributed to static. Due to the short distance available on the inside of a socket, and the need for keeping the dimensions of the socket as small as possible, the contact spring must necessarily be short. Due to the shortness of the spring, most of the sockets at present are unsatisfactory because the springs become permanently bent. This requires frequent bending back into their former position so that a good contact can be obtained with the prongs of the tube.

The socket should also be nonmagnetic. In a receiver which uses ordinary sockets, a loud ring will be heard whenever the set is jarred. Often remembering the hand from the tuner dial will be sufficient to cause the tubes to get up this ring.

To cure this many set-builders fasten their sockets on soft rubber sponges to absorb vibration. The chief objection to this method is that if you use a sponge to hold the socket down to the baseboard or use the bus bar wiring to the binding posts, the socket is mechanically connected to the baseboard and the rubber support does not help a great deal in reducing noise.

First Safety Razor

Razors were in use at a very early period and known to the people of Egypt. They used a primitive form of razor, in many cases merely a sharp-edged flint. The first instance of the safety razor was that made by Michael Thayer of Sheffield, England, in 1873.

Noted Lawyers Seek Bryan Scalp

Offer Services in Defense of Tennessee Professor Whose Teaching of Theory of Evolution is Violation of Law.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, May 16.—Clarence Darrow, famous Chicago attorney, and Dudley Field Malone, former collector of the Port of New York, want to help Professor J. T. Scopes defend himself against the charge of violating the laws of Tennessee, by teaching the theory of evolution.

Following a conference here today the two lawyers sent the following message to Judge John Randolph Neal, head of Scopes' counsel. "We are certain you need no assistance in your defense of Professor Scopes, who is to be prosecuted for teaching evolution. But we have read the report that William J. Bryan has volunteered to aid the prosecution and in view of the fact that scientists are so much interested in the pursuit of knowledge that they cannot make the money lectures and Florida real estate agents command, in case you should need us, we are willing, without fees or expense, to help the defense of Professor Scopes in any way you may suggest or direct. (Signed) "CLARENCE DARROW," "DUDLEY FIELD MALONE."

POPULAR "DOCTOR"

NOT A PHYSICIAN

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, May 16.—The Vienna medical profession and the general public was shocked to learn today that the popular "Dr." Rudolph Inders, house surgeon at the Women's Hospital in Vienna, not only was not a qualified physician but that he was an ex-convict, said a dispatch from Vienna today to the Daily Mail.

The discovery was made following the arrest of Inders on a charge of stealing medical books.

Jailed in Sofia Bombing

COMMUNIST BOMBERS LED AWAY IN CHAINS.

Manacled with chains of heavy, cast-iron links, Communists convicted of participation in the bombing of the Sofia Cathedral, Bulgaria, were paraded through the streets, some to be summarily shot later, others to endure long sentences in prisons. This was the first photo to reach this country of the manacled convicts.

It is entirely safe to hang pictures on wallpaper provided care is used in selecting pictures and designs that harmonize rather than contrast in color and feeling.

By A. LOUISE FELLEHORN

Can pictures be successfully used with wallpaper? One of the chief reasons why some people refrain from using wallpaper in their living rooms is because they feel that they cannot combine with it some of the charming color pictures that they possess. This idea is untrue. In many cases the difficulty has been that they have not used the right pictures or have failed to select the kind of wallpaper that would harmonize with them in feeling.

Leading decorators who are giving extensive thought to the production of harmony of color and design in the home strongly recommend the use of figured walls instead of the cold, neutral effect of the plain drab surfaces which have held sway for some years past.

Many living room papers are made with large, spreading designs carrying soft but definite colors that add warmth and interest to the walls. A picture that will add to rather than detract from this paper is one that contains these same colors.
